MINIMUM TO MAXIMIZING MONEY

Instructor: Bishop Charles Young

Many individuals, organizations, churches, and businesses operate at a minimum financial level—not because God desires lack for His people, but because they have not yet acquired the knowledge, principles, and strategies necessary to create sustainable growth and increase.

The purpose of this class is to share the practical strategies and principles that I have personally applied in my own life, in my business endeavors, and in the church I pastor. These are not merely theories; they are proven methods that have helped move us from limited resources to greater levels of financial stability, growth, and impact.

STRATEGIES FOR MAXIMIZING FINANCIAL RESOURCES
Instructor: Bishop Charles Young

Every leader faces the challenge of accomplishing a growing vision with limited resources. The difference between organizations that struggle and those that thrive is often not the amount of money they receive, but how effectively they strategize, manage, multiply, and maximize what they have. In this dynamic class, you will learn practical strategies for increasing financial capacity, creating sustainable growth, eliminating waste, leveraging existing assets, and developing systems that turn resources into results. Whether you lead a church, ministry, business, or nonprofit organization, this training will equip you with proven strategies to help you do more with what you have and position your organization for long-term success. If you are committed to taking your vision from survival to significance, this class is for you.
